

Darian Unger, Ph.D. is an associate professor at the Howard University School of Business. He joined the faculty of Howard University in 2004 after completing his doctorate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (M.I.T.) and teaching at the Asian Institute of Technology (A.I.T) in Thailand. He has earned multiple teaching awards from both faculty and students for his dynamic teaching and for his outstanding service to the university.

Unger's leadership includes years as chair of the School of Business Executive Committee, the Academic Planning and Curriculum Committee, and the Faculty Development and Research Committee. He has also served on the University-wide Program and Innovation Review Committee and the Provost's Academic Excellence Review Committee.

Outside of Howard University, Unger is a Montgomery County Firefighter and Emergency Medical Technician. He has also served as chair of the Montgomery County American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), the Sierra Club, Progressive Neighbors, and as President of the Silver Spring Advisory Board. He lives in Silver Spring, Maryland with his wife and children.